Challenge Conference

19-21 August 2011 • Camp Clayton • Ulverstone Tasmania

Our God calls us all to be passionate ministers of the gospel. Some of us do this in a paid 'full time' kind of a way. Others do it in, by and through some other full time job. Still others mix and match. But whilst some currently do one of the above, they can't help but wonder whether they should be doing one of the others.

Regardless of which camp you sit in, the Ministry Challenge Conference is for YOU! We want to challenge you to minister passionately in whichever context the Lord has called you to. But we also want to challenge you to dream. Maybe there are ways you could minister that you never before thought possible. We want to feed and nourish such dreams and maybe even help you make them realities!

As if this weren't enough, we will spit roast great pork for you, brew you great coffee and provide a forum for amazing conversations. We are well set up for all sorts of families so kids are more than welcome. What's more we'll do all of this nestled away on the shores of Bass Strait in Tasmania's beautiful North West.

These are just some of the reasons why the Challenge Conference is the conference of the year. If you want the other reasons, then you'll have to come and experience them for yourself.

Des Smith

Des is married to Suzie and is the Youth and Young Families Minister at the Christian Reformed Church of Kingston. He talks incessantly (in Grade One, reading his end of year report, he had to ask his Mum what the word 'verbose' meant) and the few things that can shut him up include reading, cooking, going to the theatre, chess and bushwalking. Des will be speaking on the book of Philemon.

as the Junior School Chaplain. Spare time is pretty thin on the ground, but when she has it she loves to read novels, watch movies, see friends, cook and eat tasty food from around the world.

Andrew Cameron

Andrew is a lecturer in ethics, social ethics and theology at Moore College. He has been teaching at Moore since 2002. Andrew is married to Mary-Anne and they have two kids - Amy and Thomas. Andrew likes his chickens, his family, the odd bike ride and living in Newtown, Sydney.

Suzie Smith

Suzie is married to Des. They live in Kingston and attend Kingston Reformed church. She teaches French at Iahan School and has also been recently appointed
